A Step by Step Collage is located on page 3.

PLEASE NOTE: The heart shape paper punch used for this project is a retired Stampin' Up! one, but the hearts are 4 1/2 across and just less than 4 inches high.

Supply List:

- Cardstock (Red, pink, black)
- Pom Poms. 7 mm (about 1/4 inch in diameter).
- Chocolate Wrapped Heart Shaped Candy
- Heart Shaped Paper Punch. I used the Stampin' Up! one. The hearts are approximately 4 1/2 across and just less than 4 inches high.
- 1 and 3/4 Inch Circle Paper Punch.
- 1 and 1/4 Inch Circle Paper Punch.
- Adhesive. I used a tape runner.
- Mini glue dots (for pom poms)
- Paper Cutter
- Bone Folder

Directions for each ladybug:

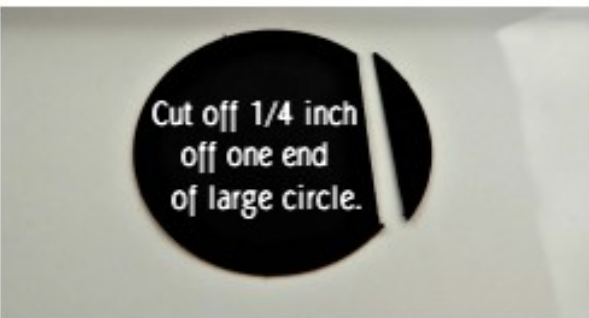

- Punch out four hearts (approximately 4 inches in size) out of red or pink cardstock.
- Punch out one 1 and 3/4 inch circle out of black cardstock.
- Punch out one 1 and 1/4 inch circle out of black cardstock.
- Cut 1/4 inch off of one edge of the black 1 and 3/4 inch black circle.
- Take the smaller black circle and adhere it with adhesive about halfway under edge of the larger circle along the straight line (where you cut it). This forms the base of the body.
- Take the bone folder and score down the center of all four hearts and press out score line and fold.
- Take two hearts. Attach them with adhesive overlapping slightly, keeping the points together. (See the Step by Step photos below.)
- Do the same to the other two hearts. This forms the base pieces for the wings.
- Adhere the heart wing bases onto the body base with adhesive. Two of the edges of the wing bases should be lined up in the middle and against each other.
- Add a little adhesive to the inside of the wing bases and adhere heart shaped wrapped candy. Place the candy as far up into the point as possible. (The Dove candy hearts are rounder so they won't fill in the point.)
- Adhere two pom poms with mini glue dots onto the smaller circle close up to the where the wings start forming.
